

The geocolor-enhanced imagery in the background, created by NOAA's partners at the Cooperative Institute for Research in the Atmosphere (CIRA), shows Hurricane Michael as a Category 4 hurricane less than 90 miles southwest of Panama City, Florida. The image was captured by GOES-16, the operational GOES-East satellite, at 9 a.m. ET on October 10, 2018.

- * Strikes-include hurricanes that did not make direct landfall but did produce hurricane force winds over land.

